This Office Entails Neat Salary and Duty Is to Bring Party Together at the Crucial Time.

When private affairs or other matters make it impossible for our lawmakers to attend to their duties in house or senate a "pair" is made out with a member of the opposition and filed with the clerk. This acts to preserve the balance of the majority, since one vote from each side is taken away. The matter is entirely one of personal arrangement, and the clerk's only duty is to record the fact.

In parliament there is an official to prepare these pairs and to act as "whip" for his party, the place carrying with it a salary of $10,000 as patronage secretary.

The parliamentary whip is something more than an arranger of pairs, however, for his chief duty lies in seeing that all members of his party are present when there is likely to be any need of their vote, and for this purpose he sends out, through his assistants, notices in which the importance of the events to come is shown by the number of underscored lines used.

A one line whip, wherein the subject of debate and other information are underscored but once, is not regarded as being particularly pressing, but a two-line whip commands attention, and a three-line whip means that the recipient who absents himself is liable to find himself in disfavor with this party. Four lines are used only in announcing great events, and no one who receives the occasional five-line whip would think of remaining away unless ill in bed.

In parliament pairing is a matter arranged by the whips of the opposing parties and not by those who seek to escape their duties. At times there are humorous mistakes made as each seeks to pair off some one who would in any event remain away. The most notable case was one wherein a man abed with a broken leg was paired with a member who had just died, each whip gloating over his cleverness until the facts came to light.

In Praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

There is no other medicine manufactured that has received so much praise and so many expressions of gratitude as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is effective and prompt relief follows its use. Grateful parents everywhere do not hesitate to testify to its merits for the benefit of others. It is a certain cure for croup and will prevent the attack if given at the first appearance of the disease. It is especially adapted to children, as it is pleasant to take and contains nothing injurious. Mr. E. Humphreys, a well known resident and clerk in the store of M. E. Lock, of Alice, Cape Colony, S. F., says: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to ward off croup and colds in my family. I found it to be very satisfactory and it gives me pleasure to recommend it." For sale by L. L. ### What They Show Concerning Poisoning in This Country.

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—Where are the tens of thousands of persons who are alleged to be the victims of patent medicines? That they do not exist at all, is the conclusion reached by a Chicago statistician who has compiled figures relating to the injury or death of persons from the use, or accidental misuse of drugs, poisons and medicines.

It has been charged, by one or two Eastern magazines, that "patent" medicines are injuring those who use them, and, as these statements are to be used as the basis of the arguments to be made for the passage, at the next legislative session, of laws prohibiting the sale of these medicines, the figures of the Chicago statistician are of unusual interest and importance.

That less than one-twentieth as many persons are injured by the use of all "patent" medicines, of which it has been possible to learn the trade name or the name of the manufacturer, as are injured by carbolic acid alone is one of the facts proven.

Carbolic acid is not included in the sweeping denunciations of ready to use remedies, however, probably for the reason that it does not enter into competition with the regular school of medicine as do the "patent" medicines. The complaint covers 697 cases, reported in the newspapers of the county during the period between Aug. 15 and Nov. 1. As the services of four clipping bureaus were engaged to furnish clippings of cases of poisoning, there is reasonable assurance that practically every poisoning case that has occurred in that time has entered into the compilation.

None of the 697 cases is a case of suicide or attempted suicide, or a case wherein a drug or poison was used with criminal intent. The cases are actually those of accidental poisoning, or poisoning from the use, or accidental misuse of medicines, drugs or poisons. Of these cases 292 were fatal to; 191 being fatal to adults and 101 to children. Forty cases were of alleged malpractice, eleven of which were fatal and 21 of which involved criminal operations. Six were cases involving "patent" medicines, the trade name of which could be learned by diligent inquiry. Five of these cases were fatal.

Four were cases where overdoses had been taken; three were cases where the preparations had been taken by mistake for other medicines and the rest were cases where the medicines had been left within reach of children, who, childlike, ate or drank the contents of package or bottle. There is not a recorded case where injury was caused by use according to directions of "patent" medicines, but there are recorded cases where perscriptions have been written or filled wrong.

In 212 of the 697 cases the wrong medicine was taken, or poison was taken in mistake for medicine. In 208 cases bottles were left within the reach of children and in 96 cases overdoses were taken by mistake. Carbolic acid figured in 141 of the cases, or in one case in every five. It was fatal in 52 cases. Of these, 32 were adults and 20 children.

It was taken by mistake for other medicine 85 times and left within the reach of children 48 times. It was administered by mistake of nurse three times; one old gentleman, carrying a bottle of it fell, breaking the bottle, the contents of which seriously bruised him. One little girl, in play, rubbed it on the face of her playmates, all being seriously burned.

Morphine ranked second, with 66 cases, 46 of which were fatal; 38 to adults and 4 to children. It was taken by mistake 6 times, and left within reach of children 20 times. Overdoses were taken 40 times, 23 of the victims being habitues. It was administered by medical student three times.

Laudanum ranked third, with 43 cases, 16 of which were fatal, 12 to adults and 4 to children. It was taken by mistake 16 times, left within reach of children 10 times, and overdoses were taken 17 times.

Strychnine ranked fourth with 24 cases, 15 being fatal, 5 to adults and 10 to children. It was taken by mistake 7 times; left within reach of children 16 times, and administered by mistake of parent once.

Ammonia ranked fifth with 14 cases, none of which however was fatal. It was taken by mistake for medicine 10 times, and left within reach of children 4 times.

Three deaths are attributed to the use of bay rum as a beverage, and 9 deaths, nearly twice as many as are traceable to patent medicine, were caused by the use of Florida water as a beverage.

Fly poison figures in 15 cases, and caused death in 5, alone being responsible for more than twice as many cases and as many deaths as all "patent" medicines.

Lye, in the period covered by the 697 cases, was taken by mistake for medicine five times, and left within reach of children eight times, the use of it being responsible for three deaths. In the same time there were 34 cases of ptomaine poisoning, resulting in nine deaths.

Practically every known poison enters into the 697 cases, and the figures shown conclusively that patent medicines, while they are probably ahead in the number of times used in the average household, are way behind when it comes to poisoning or injuring those who use, or accidentally misuse them.
